La'd on the table.

Mr. Hoar offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling on the Postmaster General for information as to what length of time books and other parcels received by mail from foreign countries are detained at the New York custom house, and the reasons for such detention.

The Senate then took up the resolution offered by Mr. Brown on the 4th of January, declaring that the practice of the government for the first three-quarters of a century of its existence was correct, in collecting the necessary revenues at the ports of ing the necessary revenues at the ports of other boundaries of the territory by tariff, except in cases of war or great emergency, when Internal revenue laws, or laws imposing direct taxes, were passed, which were repealed as soon as the emergency cased to exist; and resolving that the internal revenue laws, which were enacted as war measures in time of a great emergency, and which are onerous, oppressive, and undemocratic, have existed for almost a quarter of a century after the emergency has passed, and that there being a very large surplus in the treasury, which it is the duty of the government to provide sgainst by a reduction of the revenues, it is the duty of the government to provide sgainst by a reduction of the revenue, is in the imperative duty of Congress to enact appropriate legislation for the repeal of such internal revenue laws.

Mr. Brown addressed the Senate in support of his resolution. He occupied his each while reading his remarks on account of his suffering from an attack of selatica. At the close of Mr. Brown's remarks, at 2.45, he moved that the resolution be referred to the committee on finance.

Mr. Beck objected to that reference on the ground that that conmittee had no jurisduction over the subject, as the House of Representatives alone toud initiate a bill for the reduction of taxes. He wished to have the resolution lie on the table, so that some sensions could be heard on the ing the necessary revenues at the ports or other boundaries of the territory by tariff, to have the resolution lie on the table, as that some senators could be heard on the opposite side of the question. The senate had just listened to a defense of the Georgia moonshiners, and to an attack ou th government and its officers. He wished : chance to reply to it.

The resolution was laid on the table, and the Blair education bill was then taken up the Blair education bill was then taken up as the unfinished business.

Mr. Vest opposed the bill. If he was called upon, he said, to frame a title for it he would call it "An act to erect a monument to the memory of Alexander Hamilton, and to encourage mendicancy in the southern states." If the dead were permitted to take any interest in the affairs of the living, what (he asked) must be the surprise of the majestic John C. Calhoun when he saw his former followers, the strict constructionist and states' C. Calhoun when he saw his former followers, the strict constructionist and states' rights 'Democrats of the south, yelling in both houses of Congress for the old flag and an appropriation? In his judgment the enactment of the pending bill would be a greater calamity to the southern people than war, pestilence, and famine. If it were not for the money temptation in the bill it would stand no more chance of the votes of Democratic senators than a donation for the devil would stand in a Christian congregation. If any senator thought proper to abandon the Democratic construction of the constitution and adopt that of the Federalist he was at liberty to do so; but he should not, without his (Vet's) profest, carry with him the names of the great men who had distinctly and emphatically repudiated the Hamiltonian emphatically repudiated the Hamiltonian idea that this was a government of unlim ited powers.

To accept money under the terms of the bill would be to surrender all that made state authority respectable.

Mr. Vest quoted statistics to show that liliteracy and crime did not go together in the ratio claimed by Mr. Blair.

On motion of Mr. Spooner, the Senate took up and passed a bill appropriating $1,000,000 for a government building at Milwaukse, Wis.

The Senate then, on motion of Mr. Harris, proceeded to the consideration of executive business, and haif an hour afterward (at 4:40) the Senate aljourned.

THE HOUSE.

Immediately after the close of the char lain's preyer, Mr. Baker, of Hilinois, said that he felt constrained to resign his position as a member of the committee or claims, adding, however, a sincere expression of his high appreciation of the person nel of that committee.

The resignation was accepted.

Mr Shaw, of Maryland, chalman of the committee on accounts, reported a resolution designating the committee entitled to employ clerks.

Mr. Shaw demanded the provious question, but the House refused -jeas 85, may 180-to sustain the demand.

Mr. Hooker, of Mississippi offered an amendment assigning clerks to the committee on expenditures in the State Repartment, on expenditures in the Navy Department, of Justice, on Mississippi Improvement, and on ventilation and acoustics—committees which had not been allowed separate clerks by the report of the committee on accounts.

In support of his amendment Mr. Hooker maintained that if a committee was im-pertant enough to be organized it was im-poriant enough to have a clerk to conduct its busicess.

Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, said that the object of appointing a clerk to a committee was that the business of the committee was that the business. In the first session of the last Congress the committee on expenditures in the State Department—to which it was now proposed togive a clerk—made no report, and in the second session it made a similar number.

Mr. Hooker replied that the expenditure committees would be important ones if their members faithfully performed their duties. He had once served upon the committee on expenditures in the Treasury Department, and he had never served upon a Miled out on a point of the phraseology of the proviso, so as to bring it within the rules without changing its effect.

Mr. Brumm, of Pennsylvania, favored the proposition, and thought that the chairmen of committees should not be so selfsh as to keep all the "pork" themselves.

selfish as to keep all the "pork" themselves.

Mr. Struble, of Iowa, said that no member of Congress could faithfully perform all the duties which devolved upon him without the assistance of a clerk, and he was in favor of providing members with clerical aid.

Mr. Herbert, of Alabams, took a similar view, and warned his political friends that though the proposition came from the other side, the Democratic majority would be held rasponsible for its adoption.

Mr. Blount, of Georgia, earnestly urged his party friends to defeat a proposition which had already been repudiated repeatedly by Democratic Houses. He regretted the division which had cocurred in the ranks of the majority upon the report of the committee on accounts, and advocated the recommittee on accounts, and advocated the recommitted of the report and amendments thereto.

Mr. Stockdale, of Mississippi, did not think that the proviso had been sufficiently considered, and, while he was not prepared at present to say that he would vote for or sgainst the proposition, he would not be guided in his action by the effect which the adoption of such a measure would have upon the presidential election.

Mr. Matson, of Indiana, did not regard the proposition as a serious one, deeming it incredible that the House, by a simple resolution, would create 300 additional office-bolders. ereto. Mr. Stockdale, of Mississippi, did not

Mr. Stewart, of Georgia, opposed what he regarded as an indirect and unwise mode of soding $100 a month to the salary of a member. If the proposition had any merit it should be enacted into a permanent law to take effect in the future.

After further debate Mr. Mills, of Texas, moved to recommit the report and pending amendments to the committee on accounts.

Mr. Johnson, of Indians, moved to amend the motion by directing the committee to report back a resolution making it unlawful for any committee clerk to perform any duty for the chsirman of the committee or any member thereof that does not pertain to the business of the committee.

Mr. Johnson's motion was defeated—vess; 111, nays 167—and Mr. Milla's motion was agreed to—121 to 100.

The Speaker then proceeded to call the states for the introduction of bills and resolutions, and among those introduced were the following: To increase the compensation of fourth-class postmasters; for the religinment of disabled army officers; to restrict immigration; to secure American registration for foreign built ships; to establish of their Sataries. A decision was rendered in the United States Supreme Court yesterday in the postmaster's salary case of the United States, ex rel. J. K. McLean, vs. Pust-States, ex rel. J. K. McLean, vs. Post-master General William F. Vitas. This was an action on mandamus to compel the Fost-master General to readjust the salaries of the postmasters of the lower grades in accordance with the acts of July 1, 1864, June 12, 1864, and March B. 1863. The petition was list in the supreme court of this District, denied and carried up on appeal. The court, Justice Miller delivering the opinion, after a careful review of all the statutes relaxing to the subject agrees with the Postmaster General in his understanding and construction of them, and holds that Congress did not contemplate a readjustment of the salaries of any of these officers oftener than once in two years as a legal duty or obligation on the part of the Postmaster General. The judgment of the supreme court of this district was affirmed.

"THE DAUGHTER OF THE REGIMENT." The manner in which the Boston Ideals produced Donizetti's tuneful and martial opera, "The Daughter of the Regiment, last night is proof positive that this organ-ization has reached that point of excellence toward which the management's efforts have so long been tending. Since their last visit the Boston Ideals have been recruited as regards principals and chorus, and strengthened by an orchestra which is not second to that of the National Opera Company, and they safely attempt the most ambitious works and take the first place among to-day's opera troupes. Our opera-goers were not slow to perceive the strides made by the Boston Lieals even since their previous visit, and from the outset the orchestra received its meed of praise in a round of applause accorded to the excellent playing of the overture. Mr. George Loesch is to be congratuiated at having to conduct so efficient an orchestra. The stage mountings and the costumes were splendid, and everything went with that smoothness characteristic of a well drilled and well equipped troups. To particularize, Mile. Zelle de Lussau, the bright and talented prima donna of the Ideals, stands so high to-day in the eyes of the public and of the most able musical critics of the country that to say that she appeared as Marie is sufficient. Every role she has assumed during her brilliant operatic career has been by her made her own, and her impersonation of Marie adds but another laurel to the wreath she has won during her brilliant career. "As In a Looking Glass," has considerable strength, immeasurably more than the company Mrs. Langtry brings with her can develop. The lady herself assuredly has an intelligent idea of the character of Lens Despard, but she is not possessed of the power to justly embody it. There is an agreeable case and composure in her bearing, she robes the role with most admirable and exquisite taste, and in the expression of ardent passion her endeavors are highly commendable. Mrs. Langtry's love-making is well done. That is all I can say, unless it be to suppose that with a stronger company about the she might be inspired to intensity some scenes. The very best work in the play is done by Mr. Frederick Everil, who enacts the character of Count Paul Dromiroff with intelligence, judicious force, and distinguished courtifyless, and, although he does not appear until the third act, he easily captures the place. Ithink Mr. Berrymore capable of much better work than he gives in the character of Capt. Jack Forthisfasselle can eretainly make his presence much more agreeable by modifying and modulating his voice. Mr. Wanser, Mc. Calvert, and Mr. Lynch de fairly well. The balance of the cast is exceeding weak, with the exception of Miss Nodage Doree, who, as the French mail, does the best of the fenales. All the members of the committee were present except Senators Wilson, of lowa, and Vest, who were paired. It is in contemplation since the resignation of Secretary Lamar to proceed with the cases of Messrs, Vilas and Deamson, without respect to that of Secretary Lamar, although this course has not been determined upon. All the members of the committee having expressed themselves on the Lamar case in committee, no doubt is entertained that there will be a majority and minority report, with division upon party lines, the majority report of course, being adverse.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Dripps.

The employes of Pettit & Dripps' ma-chine shop, corner Fourteenth and B streets, numbering about thirty blacksmiths, ma-chinists, and laborers, were startled by a lend noise and a crash yesterday morning at 7 o'clock. The noise was occasioned by the 25 horse power boiler blowing up, and the crash was caused by a portion of the building falling in. Owing to the suddenthe crash was caused by a portion of the building falling in. Owing to the suddenness of the explosion no one had a chance to escape. Those is jured are; John L. Huff, machinist, 76 G street, badly scalded; L. Washburn, machinist, Fourteenth street and Ohio avenue, left leg burt; Edward Birmingham, blacksmith, 234 A street, injured about the head; Harry Eliis, 643 G street, injured internally, badly scalded, and cut in the right leg.

As soon as the smoke and steam cleared away the injured men were carried to a place of safety and Dr. Harrison sent for. Afterwards they were sent to the Emergency Hospital, and subsequently taken to their homes.

The ruins having caught fire an alarm was turned in and the firemen soon had a stream playing on the ruins.

The boller took an upward flight through the second floor, tearing everything to pieces, and then fell outward, carrying with it a portion of the building. The damage is about $10,000.

The cause of the explosion is unknown, as the boiler was supposed to be in good condition. The boiler examiners will investigate the accident, and endeavor to ascertain who is to blame. The shell of the boiler was examined by Mr. Wilkinson, boiler inspector, shortly after the explosion, but showed no signs of weakness.

H. A. Glover, foreman of the boiler bones, had a narrow escape. At the time of the explosion he was standing alongside the boiler, but was uninjured.

CICERO, HAMILTON CO., IND., Scot. 19, 1987.-

Cherro, Hamilton Co., Isn., Sept. 18, 1831.— The following is a true account of what your 8, 8, 8, has done for our little daughter. Hazel, now four years old. When 12 mouths old a jump appeared on her heel, which slowly grow larger. The family physician thought it was caused by a piece of broken glass or needle, but failed to bring anything to light. The child became feedler all the time, seeming to lose the use of her leg, and flustly quit wait-ing entirely. The middle fluser and thumb ing entirely. The middle finger and thumb of either hand became enlarged, the thich is coming hard. The hip joints became involved, so that when seventeen months old she could not stand, having lost the use of leg andarm. Partial curvature of the pube also followed. The nervous system was wrecked, muscles contracted, and there was general wasting of flesh and number. At elubteral months of age size was placed under the treatment of a prominent physician of flesh and club of the months shad declined to such a degree that size was in a dying condition. This was in April, 1986 We took the child away not knowing what to do. In this dreaf of thems we were ing entirely. The middle finger and thum! we took the child away not knowing what to do. In this dread it dilcuma we were over-persuaded by f, ends to try "one bot-tis" of Swipr's Spicirs, which we dil, and before it had all been taken we saw a change for the better in her symptoms. We kept it up, and have done so to this day, and will keep it up, if the Lord wills, for many days to come, for it has brought our wine Hard to come, for it has brought our dying Hand to life, to vigor, to strength our dying Hand to life, to vigor, to strength and health again. The ashon hus of her checks has changed to a rooy tlut. She is able to walk anywhere, her languor and melanchely have passed away, and she is now a tilthe, cheerint may py remaining child.
